Amelia Linde

Director of Financial Services Policy Block, Inc.

Amelia Linde is Director of Financial Services Policy at Block, Inc., the technology company behind Square, Cash App, Afterpay, and Tidal. She leads policy and regulatory strategy across financial services, consumer and commercial lending, and financial crime prevention. With a decade of experience at the intersection of policy and business, she has spent the last 4.5 years at Block advocating for fintech regulation that protects consumers, safeguards the innovation environment, and expands access to the economy and responsible credit. Before joining Block, Amelia held public affairs and policy roles at Better.com, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and Fidelity Investments. She holds an MBA from the University of New Mexico's Anderson School of Management and a B.A. in Strategic Communication and Political Science.
