In July 2015, Laura, a retired nurse, leveraged her 30 years of management experience and her son’s 13 years of truck driving expertise to start MJP Trucking.

MJP Trucking is a minority and female owned trucking company providing dependable, performance driven bulk hauling and dump truck services.

ECDI provided Laura with a Launch Loan to purchase a computer to start her business.
Case Study A

Mr. & Ms. Davis started a commercial janitorial service, in 2008. During their very first year in business, they had the good fortune of cleaning the private planes of both Barack Obama and Joseph Biden during the 2008 presidential campaign. At the close of their first year in business, they generated $63,000 in revenue, and in 2015, they closed the year with approximately $750,000 in sales. In 2014, the Davises had the opportunity to expand their territory and needed to raise capital to purchase the expanded franchise but were unable to obtain a conventional business loan.
